Moving Forward in Hope: A Reopening Update

Dear St. Francis Family:

We are ready to take more steps forward as we regather our community of faith. The following four adjustments will take effect on the dates noted below:

EFFECTIVE, TUESDAY, JULY 6: The parish will be open to the public M-F, 9:00am-4:00pm. Receptionists will be available at the Pastoral Offices to assist you with your pastoral needs.

EFFECTIVE SUNDAY, JULY 4: One more Mass will be added back to our weekend schedule. The Mass time will be 7:15am on Sunday (note the time change).

EFFECTIVE SUNDAY, AUGUST 15: The time change for the early Mass on Sunday morning is part of a bigger adjustment to the Sunday morning schedule that will begin on August 15 (see below). Motivating the schedule adjustment is the growing trend in Catholic parishes to experience Sunday not only as a time to worship but also to grow in what our faith means and as a community, especially for adults.

Making this growth in faith possible is the extraordinary education of our staff, the knowledge and skills of other parishioners, and access to outside speakers who can engage us in meaningful ways about what we believe and how we live our faith. There is a great opportunity before us as we regather our community to provide ongoing formation for adult parishioners who 1) seek depth more appropriate for adults about the fundamentals of our faith, 2) would appreciate updates on pressing current issues (e.g., bioethics, the environment, societal issues, parenting), and/or 3) simply want to learn more about their faith.

After extensive discussions with and the endorsement of both church staff and the Pastoral Council about this initiative, we will launch this program for parishioners beginning this fall. As a first step, we will offer a program on Sunday morning, twice a month between September and May, for adults to gather for approximately one hour to learn more about the Catholic faith as noted above. In order to do this, an adjustment to the current Sunday morning Mass schedule is required so we have enough time to socialize and learn without major chaos on the parking lots before or after these Masses.

I am fully aware that time changes to Mass schedules are among the most delicate issues a pastor faces. The current Sunday morning Mass schedule has existed at St. Francis for many, many years and I know people have important reasons for selecting a Mass time that best suits their needs. I am also aware that there is a major pastoral need for us to provide intentional and ongoing formation for the adults of our parish.

EFFECTIVE SUNDAY, AUGUST 15: On this day, we will also restart our late-morning Sunday Mass. Our Sunday morning Mass schedule will be:

We will shift the 9:30am Mass to 9:00am. We will continue to livestream the mid-morning Mass as was announced a few weeks ago. The Saturday and Sunday evening Mass schedule remains unchanged.

The timing of this shift in mid-August will give us a few weeks to adjust to the schedule prior to the start of our fall faith formation programs. Once these programs begin in September, this adjustment will allow for faith formation of children and adults to take place between the conclusion of the 9:00am Mass and the beginning of the 11:45am Mass. Those coming for adult formation on Sunday and who would prefer to worship that morning as well will be able to go to Mass either before the adult formation sessions or after them. This also becomes an exciting new format for parents to be fed as first teachers in their children's faith as their younger children participate in faith formation on Sunday morning.

This is not a perfect solution for everyone at St. Francis. We took time to consider the impact this revised schedule will have on a variety of groups and individuals but believe this is the best solution for the vast majority of parishioners. I am grateful for your willingness to try this for a year to see if this can create a space for ongoing faith formation of our adult community while not seriously affecting a Mass schedule rhythm we have become accustomed to over several decades.

As a plan for the fullness of time, to unite all things in him, things in heaven and things on earth. Ephesians 1:10

This past week we marked the longest day of the year with the summer solstice. Growing up in the northeast, this always signaled the official start of summer as the school year was just ending. As a child, I vividly remember looking forward to what, at the time, seemed to be endless weeks of summer vacation! Of course, to a young child, time is often more ambiguous than not. It is usually difficult for children to think about the concept of time passing so much that they too will eventually grow to be an adult like their parents. Even though my own teenagers can certainly understand more readily than a small child, they still continually remind my husband and I of how 'ancient' we are! Needless to say, this only helps to emphasize to us how quickly the years are going!

From a developmental standpoint, preschoolers begin to have a better understanding of the concept of time around the age of 4. As educators, we introduce 'bits and pieces' of this concept throughout the preschool years in several ways. For example, we know that establishing a routine is key for our preschoolers. A consistent schedule helps our students know not only what to expect, but also gives a frame of reference for what has and will happen in their day. Snack time, playground time, and circle time are all appropriate points of time to mark with a preschooler. Using age-appropriate time vocabulary such as 'before' and 'after' is also important and can be used in the context of a practiced routine. That's not to say, of course, that everything remains on schedule all of the time. Flexibility and how to adjust to change are skills that need to be practiced at an early age too so that blood pressure problems in the future can hopefully be avoided!

As with all preschool learning, making it relevant to children's experiences is critical. Preschoolers are more successful in understanding time when it's framed around personal events, not only at school, but in their everyday experiences as well. A perfect example of this is when it's someone's birthday; the child's excitement before they even enter the classroom is almost tangible! As preschool educators, we also recognize that visual aids and physical reminders help to build the concept of time. Many classrooms utilize techniques such as crossing off days on a calendar, turning over a completed activity card on a picture schedule, or setting a timer. Keeping in mind that a young child has difficulty understanding "5 more minutes", teachers often will spread their two hands apart to provide a more concrete idea of how long or short that is. They use songs about cleaning up, getting in line, etc. so that the children learn when the song is over, they need to be done with what the teacher asked of them.

Since time is so abstract for our preschoolers, can you imagine how hard it is for them to think about being with God? Many of them associate God in heaven. If they have had grandparents who have passed they might readily associate only very old people being with God in heaven. How do we help our little students understand this better? I think one of the most important things that we do at preschool is to teach them early on that God is not just in heaven and far away from us; He is, rather, right next to and all around us. We "see" His presence in the butterflies that flit by us, in the flowers that pop up in Spring, in our friends sharing with each other, and in the hands that we fold together in prayer. God is everywhere. We do not have to wait to see Him until we get old, die, and "go to" heaven. He is here with us now. Our exceptional teachers are experts in helping our preschoolers understand this. They aim to lay the groundwork for our children to develop a relationship with our Lord now that will only deepen as they become older. Seeing it from this perspective, I believe, is a good reminder to us adults. Perhaps we can strengthen our own relationships with our Heavenly Father by always keeping this in mind!

A Day in the Life of a Migrant Farm Worker

The Pandemic has changed a lot in our country, indeed our world. But a day in the life of a migrant farm worker here in North Carolina remains remarkably similar to what it has always been. For most it looks similar to this: Wake at 5:00 am, dress in the dark and eat a small cold breakfast. Board the van to the fields at 5:45 unsure of where you will be working that day. 6:00 am - begin harvesting tobacco, fruits and/or vegetables, most days in full sun, 80 degrees. Pick as fast as you can, if you don't you may not get a break. 9:00 am- take off the trash bag you wear to protect yourself from the pesticides and take a 10-minute water break. 12:00 pm – eat your lunch in the fields among the plants, with hands full of pesticides because there is no soap and water to wash. 4:00 pm – your second and final water break, this one for only 5 minutes.

7:00 pm – board the van back to your trailer, exhausted, to make dinner and lunch for the next day, to wash your clothes and take turns showering and calling your family who you will not see for months. 9:00 pm - go to bed hoping for a better night's sleep so you can drag yourself out of bed tomorrow, for pay that on average is below minimum wage because most farm workers are exempt from the minimum wage laws in our country.

Such is a day in the life of a Migrant Farm Worker in the fields of North Carolina. Would we do that work? I suspect not if there was any way we could avoid it.

Would you like to help ease the burdens of these brothers in Christ just a bit? Our Migrant Ministry here at St. Francis provides the opportunity for us to do just this. While we have always served the men through friendship and showing them we care, unfortunately COVID-19 has impacted our ability to assist them by driving them to and from Mass at Our Lady of the Rosary Parish in Louisburg every Sunday from June – September, which has always been a big part of our ministry.

So the first two months of the summer we will take a break from driving the men to Mass and continue to assist them by providing supplies, clothes and work boots from your very generous donations back in January. Watch this space for more news as we move into August or contact Bruce Cartier at bcartier7@gmail.com or 919-900-0452 for more information. Your help and kindness mean so much!

Grateful to Give

As parents face difficult decisions about how to provide their children with a quality education without breaking the bank, The Franciscan School (TFS) might just have the answer many families are looking for. TFS believes strongly in embracing students of all faiths and backgrounds – and is passionate about providing scholarships and tuition assistance to families that desire a strong Catholic education but worry the cost is financially out of reach. “There’s often a misconception that private schools are elite schools,” says Mike Watson, TFS principal. “While we are committed to providing quality education, we’re not here to separate ourselves – we want our education to be as accessible as possible.”

Each year, the school enrolls well over 600 students and offers approximately 25 percent of them with some form of financial assistance. Using funds provided by the parish offertory, TFS provides significant need-based financial aid. In five years, more than $1.8 million of tuition assistance endowments have gone to Franciscan School families such as the Marks family, who have five children at TFS.

As a large family, the generosity of TFS families and supporters has allowed the Marks children to continue receiving a Catholic education. When they started at the school during daughter Ava’s kindergarten year, they didn’t expect they would need financial assistance. However, as their family grew, so did the financial strain. “When we got to the point that we needed help, I thought I would be worried and embarrassed to ask for help. But the fear of removing them from this incredible faith-based education far surpassed my worries of being embarrassed,” says Jenny Marks, TFS mother. “Our children would never be able to remain at TFS without financial help, even being a dual-working family. The school knows our commitment to TFS and they love and support us in any way they can to make sure our goal of keeping all of them at TFS can happen. I cry every time I get the financial aid email as it is the best gift our children have ever been given.”

In 2019, in an effort to make excellent education a reality for as many families as possible, Watson formed the Timberwolf Fund to garner additional financial support. Through the generous contributions of many, including some Franciscan families who participate by paying additional tuition, each year there are families whose students received scholarships to offset the cost of tuition. “We never want the cost of tuition to be a deterrent to families seeking an excellent education,” Watson says. “Charging tuition makes it possible for us to offer our teachers a fair wage and give them access to quality materials and resources, but we understand that not every family can afford it.” And the quality of education is critical, Watson explains. The Franciscan School offers unique programs to develop life-long learners and leaders. Its reading program features a differentiated reading assessment that assesses students’ varying reading levels in grades K-8, allowing teachers to meet students where they are and build upon their reading skills, as well as a choice reading program for middle schoolers.

The school also works to build self-confidence in its students from the moment students step foot onto campus. “We utilize cultural experiences like morning prayer and weekly mass to give students opportunities to become comfortable speaking in front of large crowds,” Watson says. “These safe environments provide our students with the familiarity of speaking in front of hundreds – starting in kindergarten.”

For families who desire a private education but fear it is out-of-reach, The Franciscan School’s dedication to providing affordable private education is good news. “Offering financial assistance is a joy for us – and it’s simply part of our mission to help and support others in our community,” Watson says. “Offering hope and extending hospitality is the Franciscan way.”

Stephen Ministry at St. Francis

Part I of IV

Life has twists and turns. We all need to carry our own loads - the stresses of everyday life, the times when we feel overwhelmed. But when we are met with burdens, that's when our community is called to walk with us. Just like Simon the Cyrenian, we are all called to help shoulder the load of those who are falling beneath the weight of life's crosses.

For more than 20 years, the Stephen Ministry of St. Francis has been quietly walking with parishioners in need of care. We are blessed to have more than 30 active Stephen Ministers, but what does that mean for our community and what is Stephen Ministry?

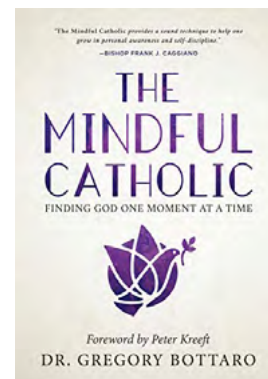

Back in 1975, Stephen C. Haug, a pastor and clinical psychologist, realized that to provide the best care for his congregation, he needed help. He realized that there were ways he could extend his pastoral reach if he could find – and train – the right people. Since then, his Stephen Ministries organization has been able to “equip the saints for the work of ministry” (Ephesians 4:12) to expand that care beyond what anyone can do alone, and he has developed the Stephen Ministry system of lay caring ministry, which has reached over 13,000 congregations worldwide. In the Triangle area, there are 87 Stephen Ministries at Methodist, Lutheran, Presbyterian and, yes, Catholic churches.

We've all had times when the normal peaks and troughs of life are diminished by an overriding issue. Maybe it's a scary diagnosis, maybe it's a relationship in trouble, maybe it's an unwanted divorce, it could be the loss of loved one or the loss of a job. At first, there are people around you who reach out to see if you're ok, offer to help in any way and that brings comfort. But in some cases, people's best intentions don't last as long as the person's needs. That's when a Stephen Minister can be a great benefit.

Stephen Ministers are trained to be confidential, to be active listeners, and to ask probing questions. They listen to their care receiver – really listen. They notice the tone of the person's voice, their posture, whether they choose active or passive words. They allow the care receiver (CR) to tell their story as often as they need to tell it. Sometimes in telling the story, the CR gains insight, remembers key details, and can gradually come to accept the situation.

Stephen Ministers also ask probing questions. What are probing questions? They are the questions your friends or family may be thinking, but may not say. But a Stephen Minister is objective. They only know the story from the CR's point of view, so when they ask a question to go deeper into the feelings and details of a story, it's not from a place of emotion or of trying to steer the CR in one direction or another. It's all to help the CR realize a new aspect of the situation.

Stay tuned over the next few weeks as we discuss more about what Stephen Ministry is and how it benefits our community. If you or someone you know could benefit from a Stephen Ministry relationship, please just reach out to me at kathleen.owen@stfrancisraleigh.org or 919-847-8205x241.

The book is called The Mindful Catholic – Finding God One Moment at a Time by Dr. Gregory Bottaro. Let's plan to have lunch meetings on Thursdays, starting on July 8 at noon. CATHOLIC DIOCESE of RALEIGH

by Marianne Williams

Sometimes it's the little glitches in life that can set one back. A single mother with a six-year-old son lives on the east side of Raleigh and travels to Cary to work. Her car broke down, so she had to use her rent money to pay for repairs so that she could continue to drive to her job. In addition, she must begin paying for summer child care.

The SFA St. Vincent DePaul Society (SVdP) was able to help her keep up with her rent as well as give her information on other places that can help. SVdP needs assistance to handle the workload.

In particular, we are in need of someone who can speak Spanish to assist with calls and visits to our neighbors in need. All work with our neighbors is completed virtually. All volunteers will receive extensive training. If you are interested in helping, contact Cathy Smith at smithtcr@gmail.com.

You don't have to go through

are there to care.

Accepting Pain

By Fr. Mark Haydu, LC

Michelangelo's statue The Pietà, finished before he turned twenty-four, expresses a theme Italians didn't enjoy seeing in art: death. Even worse, it recalls the torturous death of a crucified son held by his mourning mother. The image is horrific.

In his approach, Michelangelo is revolutionary. Rather than directly representing death, his statue is a meditation on it. Instead of showing the Virgin in the moment of extreme anguish, the normal strategy to achieve pity in the onlooker, the master decides to show Mary in humble acceptance of this heart-wrenching moment.

She doesn't fight or run from the pain in rebellious screams. Her teeth aren't clenched, her brow is unwrinkled, and her eyes aren't filled with tears imploring upward seeking to understand the illogical. She merely sits in the painful moment embracing the Son and abandoning her sorrow to the Father who permitted it.

Her hands reveal her attitude. One holds her Son under his arm firmly. She pulls him to her, sustaining the weight of the mystery. She absorbs the moment, fleeing not. Remaining in the pain, she endures the cost of our redemption, expressing her fiat again, in silence: Let it be done to me according to your word.

The other hand tilts toward us, open. She is letting go, giving over! She knows this Child in her arms was never only hers, but everyone's. We're invited to grasp her open hand, join her pain, and do our part to take up our own cross and follow him. +

the painful moment
embracing the Son and abandoning her sorrow to the Father.*

A Word from Pope Francis

They were two very different people....Yet the closeness that joined Peter and Paul did not come from natural inclinations, but from the Lord. He did not command us to like one another, but to love one another. He is the one who unites us, without making us all alike. He unites us in our differences.

—Solemnity of Sts. Peter and Paul,
June 29, 2020

REFLECTION QUESTIONS ONE? TWO? REFLECTION

- How can I embrace life's challenging moments, rather than rebel or run from them?
- How can I better accept and let go of those things that cause me pain?

Sunday Readings

Wisdom 1:13–15; 2:23–24

God formed us to be imperishable... But by the envy of the devil, death entered the world.

2 Corinthians 8:7, 9, 13–15

For your sake he became poor although he was rich, so that by his poverty you might become rich.

Mark 5:21–43 or 5:21–24, 35b–43

[Jesus] took the child by the hand and said to her, "Talitha kum," which means, "Little girl, I say to you, arise!"

Tune in to What Kids Watch

By Fr. Bruce Lewandowski, CSsR

Do your children listen to you? Are they obedient? Are they respectful? Do they understand the role and meaning of authority? Do they know their place in the family? If you answered no to any of these questions, you might want to review what your children watch on TV. It could be one source of your problems.

People criticize television programming for the prevalence of violence and sexual material available to young and impressionable viewers. With some success, the TV ratings system and other mechanisms that enhance parental supervision and control have helped to restrict young people to age-appropriate channels. The presumption is that age-appropriate is just that.

But have you ever watched children's TV programs? Often, what is called "suitable" for children is just as harmful (or even more harmful) than regular shows for grownups. Parents—as they are portrayed in sitcoms, cartoons, and commercials—are often set in opposition to their children and teens. This in itself is not bad; every family experiences conflict. The difficulty is that, more times than not, children and teens are characterized as wise beyond their years, responsible and—oddly—very parentlike, while the parents are depicted as witless, irresponsible,

I love my parents and value their wisdom and advice. I always have. I don't remember ever going through a rebellious teenage phase—where teens are known to judge everything parents do as wrong, disagreeable, contrary, or misguided—a period emulated in many TV programs that glorify the adult characteristics of children and exaggerate the foibles and weaknesses of parents. Although it may be generational, I don't think I'm alone in this opinion. The role of parents and parents themselves are being undermined.

The Church offers a guide to help parents monitor the media.

The Family Guide for Using Media from the Communications Committee of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops is available online. Together with a list of good resources, the guide offers ten actions that can help parents determine television's role in the life of their family.

Under the heading "Respect Human Beings and the Family," parents are reminded that each of us is created in the image and likeness of God and that the family gives our lives meaning and purpose. Further, it is in the family that we come to understand our identity. This happens in and through "well-ordered relationships," the guide says.

In the section titled "Use Your Intelligence," parents are urged to look at television and media thoughtfully and critically because there's always a moral message. That message could be helpful, or it could contribute to discord in your family.

Well-ordered relationships are not accidental; they don't just happen. Who maintains order in your family? Mom and Dad or the TV? +

Lord, you promise eternal life to all who believe in you. Give me the courage to be an advocate for life.

—From Faithful Meditations for Every Day in Ordinary Time, Rev. Warren J. Savage and Mary Ann McSweeney
